

A Grim Almanac Of Lancashire

Jack Nadin

For immediate release at £14.99, paperback
ISBN: 978-0-7524-5684-3

A day-by-day catalogue of 365 ghastly tales from around the county

Lancashire has been called the most colourful county in the land; you only need to see the bright lights of Blackpool during the illuminations to know how true that is. But Lancashire has a darker side. Proving the old adage that truth is stranger than fiction, Jack Nadin has put together a collection of stories from all parts of the county.

The wicked, the mad, the violent and the bad all take their place in this assembly of regrettable circumstances. Diverse tales of highwaymen, murderers, poachers, witches, rioters and rebels, as well as accounts of prisons, punishments and executions. All these, plus tales of suicide, explosions, fires, accidents by land, sea and air.

- Chronicling the darker side of Lancashire's past.
- A scandal for every day of the year.
- Tales of a Lancashire you never wished to know and never knew existed.
- Full of dreadful deeds, macabre deaths, strange occurrences and heinous homicides.
- Illustrated with black and white photographs and line drawings.

Jack Nadin is a former miner with a great interest in both the history of mining and local history. He is the author of several books, including East Lancashire Mining Memories, Burnley Cotton Mills and Padiham In Old Photographs. Now retired, he lives in Padiham, Burnley.

Available from all good bookshops, Amazon and The History Press.

Direct sales – telephone 01235 465577 or www.thehistorypress.co.uk

For information about talks or interviews, please contact Kerry Green at The History Press on 01453 732 512