

Introducing Collections Link

Collections Link is here to help you. As the first online library of collections management information it will take you directly to over 600 guidelines and fact sheets saving you time and resources.

Collections Link is managed by MDA, the National Preservation Office, and the Institute of Conservation in partnership with a range of organisations including the National Archives and English Heritage.

Collections Link is new, and growing. It contains information dedicated to helping you and your local history society. Download information on Organising Exhibitions, Caring for Collections and Fund Raising.

Alongside these documents you will find a host of information on subjects from conservation and copyright to information management and insurance. You will also find links to specialist networks such as the Oral History Society and the Rural Museums Network.

- * Try Collections Link for yourself – for collections management information at your fingertips
- * Order your free Collections Link pack – containing useful things for your local history society
- * Let us know what you think using the online feedback form – use your insight to ensure that Collections Link contains the information you need, when you need it
